

NOT A SUICIDE!

Mortem Examination On the Body of

CHARLES E. SCHAEFFER

Indicates Brutal Murder—No Trace of Bullet Found in Brain—Conflicting Verdicts.

The mysterious death at Fostoria, O., on March 5 of Charles E. Schaeffer, formerly of Rainsburg, is again attracting attention in this county. Schaeffer had been declared a suicide by a coroner's jury at the time of his death at Fostoria, and the remains were brought to Rainsburg for interment.

Charles E. Schaeffer, son of William H. Schaeffer of Rainsburg, with his brother Clarence, located near Fostoria, O., about two years ago. Last spring they rented a farm and deceased came back to this county for a time, after which he returned to Ohio with his fiancée to whom he was to be married in a few days. He was reported to have taken a sum of money along from Bedford. He left here in good spirits, and three days before his death he paid the premium on a $1,000 policy in the Union Central Life Insurance Company. The body was shipped to this county and buried at Rainsburg on March 7.

Following is the substance of the Fostoria coroner's verdict:

"Investigation shows that the deceased had just returned from Pennsylvania with his fiancée and expected to farm this season with his brother. They secured their farming implements. The farm they were to work has recently been sold. The deceased had been worried for several days past, complaining of his inability to sleep. He had arisen at daybreak, gone to the closet and secured a rifle, discharged the ball, which entered his forehead and penetrated his brain. Mr. Wiseman had gone to the barn. Mr. Wells heard him fall and came down stairs and heard him groan. He went to him, called for help and summoned doctors and the deceased died at 10 o'clock without regaining consciousness.

"The finding is as follows: After having heard the evidence, examined the body and considered the facts concerned, I do find the said deceased came to his death by a wound in the forehead inflicted by the rifle in the hands of the deceased."

No Bullet Found

The body was exhumed on June 5 and in the presence of witnesses whose affidavit is given herewith, an examination was made by Dr. H. C. Lessig who makes oath as follows:

"Personally appeared before me, John N. Minnich, a Notary Public in and for the County of Bedford, Pa., Dr. H. C. Lessig of Rainsburg, Pa., who being duly sworn deposes and says that he made post mortem examination on the body of Charles E. Schaeffer, late of Fostoria, O., that his attention was directed to the occipital, which showed a contused wound evidently inflicted by a stroke from the rear where it was reported a bullet had lodged. After a thorough inspection and dissection of the skin and muscles from the back of the skull I found no bullet, no opening in the bone nor any trace of a fracture. That he next made an examination of a wound on the frontal bone in appearance of a mark made by some smooth faced implement, which bruised and inflamed the bone but did not fracture it. That he found a puncture, oblong in shape and penetrating the bone and entering the cavity of the skull. That he next removed the upper portion of the skull and exposed the brain with its coverings. The duramater was punctured immediately behind the opening in the frontal bone, but I could trace no course through it as would naturally be made had a bullet been fired into and through the opening in the skull. That after removal of dura and membranes I carefully removed the brain in small particles, searching for the trace of a bullet. The cerebrum was somewhat softened on the upper surface and presented a pulpy semi-solid condition. That after moving the upper layers it was found to be more firm and the cerebrum was almost of normal solidity. I could trace no course of a projectile of any kind through the brain or its covering. There was the appearance of a probe one and a half inches or thereabouts in depth. After the complete removal of the brain and membranes, the inner surface of the skull was without furrow or roughness of any kind, the bone presenting a white unbroken surface. I also removed the medulla following the trace of a projectile. I am positive no bullet penetrated or passed through the brain, as it was intact, except as referred to puncture and probe.

"As far as I can discover, and judging from results of the post mortem examination I made, death was not caused by a gun shot wound inflicted upon the body of Charles E. Schaeffer, but from wounds made as described above and puncture of frontal by some implement.

"I am a regularly practicing physician at Rainsburg, Pa., a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, Pa., in the year 1873, and have been practicing my profession ever since then."

"H. C. Lessig, M. D."

CORNER-STONE LAID

For New Odd Fellows' Hall at Woodbury.

The corner-stone of the new I. O. O. F. hall being erected by Cove Lodge, No. 368, at Woodbury, was laid with appropriate and impressive ceremonies in the presence of a large crowd on Saturday, June 13, by Grand Patriarch C. W. Fox.

The parade, which formed in front of the hall, was made up of the Woodbury band, Cove Lodge of Woodbury, Amicitia Lodge of Loysburg, Saxton Lodge, Roaring Spring Lodge of Martinsburg, Model Lodge of Roaring Spring, Bedford Lodge, Chippewa Lodge Daughters of Rebekah of Woodbury, Larue Cullen Lodge Daughters of Rebekah of Saxton and the following grand officers: Grand Patriarch of the Grand Encampment of Pennsylvania C. W. Fox of Roaring Spring, Grand Marshall of the Grand Encampment William Bulger of Martinsburg; Acting Grand Chaplain F. B. Berkhimer of Roaring Spring, Acting Grand Conductor John G. Kreichbaum of Juniata, District Deputy Grand Master Augustus Troutman of Saxton, Acting Grand Secretary Frank Hoover of Woodbury, Acting Grand Architect Frank M. Smouse of Martinsburg, Acting Grand Herald George W. Karns of Loysburg, Grand Junior Warden O. W. Smith of Bedford, Flower Girls Miss Elsie Felton, N. G. of Chippewa Lodge and Mrs. Laura Brown, V. G. of Chippewa Lodge, Daughters of Rebekah.

The laying of corner-stone being completed, the grand officers assembled on the porch of the residence of W. H. Clouse, District Deputy Grand Patriarch of the Encampment of Pennsylvania, where the addresses were made, the speakers being introduced by Mr. Clouse. The addresses were made by O. W. Smith of Bedford, Rev. H. K. Ash of Martinsburg, Dr. C. W. Fox of Roaring Spring and Prof. J. G. Kreichbaum of Juniata.

At the conclusion of the addresses the urn, pitcher, plate and tools used in the ceremonies were sold at auction as souvenirs and the proceeds were presented to Chippewa Lodge Daughters of Rebekah, which organization served supper in the town hall and held a festival in the evening. The day marks the beginning of a new era in the history of Cove Lodge.

ENGLAND—SHAFFER

Pretty Wedding Solemnized at Home of Bride in Friend's Cove.

About one hundred guests assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Shaffer, near Charlesville, Tuesday morning to witness the wedding of their daughter, Miss Grace, to Harvey E. England of Altoona. The ceremony was performed at 11 o'clock by Rev. E. H. Jones of Rainsburg. The bride wore a dainty gown of white batiste and was attended by her sister, Miss Nora Shaffer. Simon England, a brother of the groom, acted as best man. A beautiful wedding-march was rendered by Prof. S. H. Koontz and Miss Virginia Arnold, of Bedford. An elaborate dinner was served immediately after the ceremony.

Mrs. England is one of Friend's Cove's prettiest and most charming young ladies. The groom, who is a son of D. P. England of Ottotown, is an industrious young man and holds the position of bookkeeper in the Juniata Shops. The happy couple drove to Bedford and boarded the 4:45 p. m. train for a visit with relatives in Ohio.

Among the guests were the following Bedford people: W. E. Shoemaker and family, Plummer James and wife, E. F. England and family, W. L. Dahl and wife, J. B. May and family, Mrs. Henry James and family, Miss Anna Diehl, Misses Margaret and Virginia Arnold and Lizzie Beegle, Charles Beegle, and Prof. S. H. Koontz.

Thomas A. Herr Married

At Cleveland, O., on March 31, Thomas A. Herr and Miss Rhea F. Stout, of Altoona, were quietly married by Rev. C. H. Houghter. The groom is a member of the well-known firm of W. H. Herr & Sons, Altoona contractors, and is now engaged in constructing the state road in this vicinity. Mrs. Herr joined her husband here yesterday.

BOYS IN BLUE

Gather Together in Annual Reunion at Saxton.

The annual reunion of the Bedford County Veterans' Association which was held at Saxton on Tuesday of this week was a marked success. The weather was ideal and the people of the progressive town as well as the visitors entered into the spirit of the occasion. Despite the rain of Monday the town was elaborately decorated and presented a beautiful appearance.

After the arrival of the morning trains the parade, in which were an unusually large number of the "Boys in Blue," was formed at the depot and marched through the principal streets of the town. The parade over, the veterans were given an excellent dinner.

The program of the afternoon at the opera house was as follows:

Overture . . . . . Saxton Band

Salutation, . . . . . Edward White, Master of Ceremonies

Music—"America" . . . . . By Audience

Devotional Exercises, . . . . . Rev. Edwin L. Eslinger

Business Meeting of the Association

At the business meeting Coaldale was selected as the next place of meeting and the following officers were elected: President, Capt. Eli Elcheberger; Vice President, S. W. Salkeld; Secretary, Alex. Prosser; Treasurer, W. B. Filler; Chaplain, Josiah Leasure.

Two ball games were played during the day, the first, during the forenoon, was won from Saxton by Coaldale, the score being 5 to 3. The afternoon game was won by Saxton from Everett by the score of 9 to 8.

Mrs. William Hartley

Among those who have been called from earth to an eternal bliss there has not been a more beloved among women than Margaret Metzger Hartley, wife of William Hartley, who departed this life at the home of C. L. Bretz in Cumberland Sunday morning, June 14, and was buried in the Bedford cemetery from her late residence, amid the sorrows and sympathy of her loving friends of many years.

Mrs. Hartley was born in Bedford on January 12, 1833. Her father was Solomon Metzger and her mother Ann Taylor, both of whom died when she was a girl of tender years. Her parents were devout Presbyterians and under the influence of their example and through the training of her church there was developed in all its beautiful proportions, that character which made her a model among women.

On the Metzger side she was descended from a large connection, who then resided in the western part of Bedford county—the settlers of an early period. Her mother was survived by two brothers—Judge Robert M. Taylor, who died at Schellsburg on August 4, 1892, and Capt. Samuel M. Taylor, who died at the City of Mexico in 1847, and whose remains now repose in the Presbyterian graveyard. Well did she recall the affectionate parting with the latter, when he took his company from Bedford in 1846 for the honor of his country in the Mexican War, and on every Decoration Day for nearly forty years a wreath was woven by her own hands to his loving and cherished memory.

On the 12th of December 1850 she was married in Bedford to William Hartley, shortly afterward moved to Mt. Dallas, and then to her native town where she spent almost the entire period of fifty-eight years of married union, during which time the influences of her gentle, lovable, and noble example made her home one of joy and blessing to her family. She is survived by her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Calton L. Bretz of Cumberland and Mrs. John M. Reynolds of this place, and one brother, Col. James Metzger of Bedford. A brother, Capt. S. S. Metzger, died about four years ago.

The funeral services were conducted in a beautiful and appropriate manner befitting her life, by Reverends Townsend, Biddle and Eyer, Tuesday afternoon.

CHILDREN'S DAY

Was Fittingly Observed in Several Churches in Bedford.

The children's services held in the Presbyterian, Lutheran and Methodist churches last Sunday were largely attended, especially by parents and friends of the children. The programs, which consisted of addresses, music, recitations and exercises of an impressive and interesting nature, were well rendered and reflect much credit upon those who trained the children in the work.

The floral decorations were beautiful and the offerings were liberal at all services. The music, especially the solos, duets and quartets, deserves especial mention as it was of a high order and was very much enjoyed. We regret that lack of space compels us to omit the programs.

At St. John's Reformed church Sunday evening Children's Day will be celebrated and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

MENTIONED IN BRIEF

WITH EVANS' FLEET

Two of Old Bedford's Sons Meet in San Francisco.

Editor Gazette:—Through the columns of your paper I wish to tell my friends of our future voyage. I don't exactly recollect where my last letter to you was from but I don't think I have written recently. Today being Sunday and everything quiet I came up to the Y. M. C. A. which is for enlisted men. We will have a Bible study at 3:30 p. m. and after the class is out they serve a free supper to uniform men only. We have here all kinds of games, such as pool, bowling alleys, which, of course, are closed all day; also a fine store or canteen, restaurant, several hundred beds, and a fine reading room; and, last of all, the boys are all very sociable.

Lately, while walking down one of the streets here I ran right into Bob McMullin of Bedford. He had on a uniform like mine and if ever you saw a meeting it was certainly between us two school boys of Bedford. He is stationed in the barracks of Mare Island. On Friday he took supper with me aboard the ship and after explaining sea life to him, he decided to make out a requisition for a transfer from the land service to sea service. I hope he gets on all right as it will be pretty nice to travel our other 23,000 miles together and make our turloughs home together in March 1909, and I must say this much, that Bedford is well represented in the Atlantic Fleet.

After leaving Frisco on May 16 we cruised up the coast to Seattle, Wash. It seemed very strange to me why they would want to drag our poor old crippled ship with them, for we lost a cylinder in Southern California by a big explosion. After we arrived in Seattle we never even dropped anchor, but turned around and headed for Mare Island to have our new cylinder put in, and to take on our stores. Our ship is the first battleship to come up into Mare Island as the water is not deep enough for ships to travel when loaded. On the 29th of this month the Fleet will assemble to make the homeward trip which takes in 23,000 miles, leaving here July 7, at 10 a. m. and stopping in Honolulu, Samoa, Australia, China, Japan, and all countries bordering on the Mediterranean Sea, then to Manila, laying over for target practice, and arriving in Hampton Roads, Va., February 22, 1909. It is now understood that the Fleet will disperse and go to their navy yards for repairs and docking. I think that instead of the Missouri going to Boston, Mass., we will go to League Island, Philadelphia, and the Maine to our yard at Boston to go out of commission.

The state of California is considered the most beautiful state in the Union, its climate being the same the year round. Flowers bloom all the time, and in day time the sun is hot but after the sun goes down it gets very chilly and most men wear overcoats. To tell the truth, I would rather live in the East where, when it's hot it is hot and cold when it is cold. As to the people, I must say they certainly treat the uniform as it should be treated.

I must now bring my letter to a close and on our next cruise will keep my friends posted as to how the U. S. Atlantic Fleet is received in foreign ports. Well, I guess I have said enough for this time and will ring off. I remain, sincerely yours, William O. Bruner, Private U. S. S. Missouri, c/o P. M., San Francisco, Cal.

Twenty-Fifth Anniversary

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of Wesley M. E. church, Everett, Rev. C. F. Weise, pastor, will be appropriately celebrated on June 27, the exercises lasting throughout the day and consisting of the anniversary exercises, picnic, etc. Prominent speakers from a distance will be present.

Not Guilty of Conspiracy

After being out 15 hours the jury in the second of the capital attack cases brought in, last Saturday morning, a verdict acquitting J. Burd Cassel and Joseph M. Huston of conspiracy to cheat the state. The costs of the suit will be borne by the state.

Sixty Men Wanted!

Notices were posted at this place last Saturday calling for sixty men to form a National Guard of Pennsylvania, to be known as Company I, 5th Regiment, to be raised, equipped and ready to go into camp at Gettysburg the second week in July. The committee, Dr. S. F. Stadler and Fred A. Metzger, asks the citizens to encourage the organization of this company.

Free delivery of mail was started on Monday.

At the recent commencement at Susquehanna University, Selingsgrove, the degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon Rev. M. L. Culler, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church. The Gazette congratulates Dr. Culler on the merited honor.

Thad S. Smith, who recently graduated from Dickinson Law School, Calistoga, after spending a few days here with his preceptor, E. M. Pennell, Esq., left yesterday morning for Billings, Mont., where he will practice his profession. Mr. Smith is a young man of ability and is a close student and will make a success in his chosen field. He has been admitted to the local bar and the Superior and Supreme Court of this state.

IN OLDEN TIMES

When Boys and Girls Studied By Pine Light on Hearth

VACATIONS ON THE FARM

Spelling Schools Popular—Teachers Required to Treat—How the Girls Were Caught.

Written by "Philip's Boy"

The following reminiscences all had their origin in southern Bedford county:

Fifty years ago school houses were built of logs, and had slabs with four or six legs for benches, with no backs to lean against. The benches were not smoothed off; the splinters were in them just as when they came from the sawmill, and the boys had to wear them smooth. The writing desks were made of a broad board, resting on wooden pins in the wall in the rear, and the front propped with a stick or two. In some houses the desk consisted of two boards, a narrow one at the top for the ink, etc., and the broad one fastened to this by swinging hinges, so that when a spelling school, singing school, preaching or anything else was held in the school house, the desk was let down to make more room.

Goose Quill Pens

Wooden pins were put in the wall all around the school house on which to hang hats, shawls, dinner baskets, etc. The pens used then were made of goose quills, and the teacher that could not make a good goose quill pen was not in much demand. Ink was either made of poke berries or ink balls that grew on the black pine oak trees, sometimes called the Spanish oak. When we began to get "store" ink and "store" pens we felt much elated. Slate pencils were whittled out of soft yellow or red slate just as we could find it; a "store" pencil made us feel rich, and one would last a whole term. We did not sharpen them, for that would have been a waste of the pencil. The older scholars had whole slates and the younger boys and girls used the pieces of broken ones.

Qualifications

The teacher had to be a good reader, penman and speller and able to "work sums" in arithmetic over to fractions and the rule of three, at least. If he could teach geography and grammar he was number one. If he could select a good switch and use it judiciously he was in demand. "She" was not known then. Female teachers were unheard of. The girls' business then in winter was to knit stockings, spin flax and wool, weave casinet, drillings and jeans, dry apples and pumpkins, make pot cheese and have everything prepared for summer so she could then hoe corn, pick brush, help harvest, make hay, gather berries, etc., but she never thought of teaching school. She couldn't swing a birch according to the requirements of that day.

Length of Term

We had but three or four months free school, and sometimes a subscription school. The custom in a subscription school was to pay the teacher a dollar, more or less, per month, per scholar for 26 days, and the neighborhood furnished the wood and an ax. The teacher and the big boys chopped the wood and the big girls swept the schoolhouse with hickory split brooms, which were made by the farmers at night. The teacher "boarded around," a week here and a week there, till he got all around, then he made the rounds again. If he was a good woodchopper, or could and would thresh grain with the flail in the evenings, he had plenty of invitations for board. If he would take a newspaper and read for the families he was a very welcome visitor.

Studied by Pine Light

The boys and girls in those days studied their lessons at night by a light made by burning pine in the fireplace, the richer the pine knots or pine roots the better the light. The children generally sat on the floor with their backs to the fire, or on three-legged stools or a wooden bench. About the first thing after supper was to pull off the shoes so they would not make so much noise on the bare floors. If there were enough children in the family, after the lessons were studied they might play a game of barley-bright or puss-wants-a-corner. When there were not so many they would amuse themselves, odd-or-even, or pick and poe. But when 9 o'clock came they went to bed, and at 4 or 5 in the morning they got up, or there was a spanking time that was loud and long. Some children, because of the distance to school, had to start about 7 o'clock, others later, according to the distance. Generally those who went farthest were there first, and had a lesson said before the near ones got there. Whenever the schoolmaster called out "books," it was time to get them. Many pupils went in classes by themselves or in pairs,

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

Mrs. Wm. Trout, living on Spring St., Bedford, Pa., says: "It would take pages to describe all the misery I suffered from kidney complaint. I believe I had all the symptoms which accompany this disease. I had severe pains in my back which at times extended into all parts of my body. I gradually ran down and finally my ankles became bloated. My condition finally became serious and I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and procured a box at Irvine's Drug Store. They have done me a great deal of good and the bloating has ceased. I feel better in every way and am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to others."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other. June 12-21.

so they could forge ahead as fast as they could—no waiting on grades or on slow pupils. Go through the book, was the motto, and through it many went in three or four months. If a boy could solve the problems on twenty pages in one night, all the better for him, but the other fellows fell behind.

Treating Custom

About the holiday time the teacher was expected to treat. The boys would begin to whisper about this two or three weeks before, and about the time their plans were ripe they would get to the school house early, bar the teacher out and demand a treat, which when it came would be apples and chestnuts, and sometimes each would get a stick of candy extra. As a rule the teacher would hold out several days or a week before yielding, especially if there was a hunting snow, for when barred out his pay went on. Sometimes he outwitted the boys and got possession of the fort. In that case the boys' backs were given a dose of hickory-oil well rubbed in, and then the treat was optional with the teacher. Occasionally the neighborhood would turn out en masse and come with baskets well filled and all would have a rousing time, with feasting, speeches and possibly a debate. On one occasion remembered a teacher was penned out for a treat, and he procured some red pepper, climbed upon the roof and dropped it down the flue. Soon an epidemic of sneezing began in the school room; the doors and windows were opened and an exodus followed. The teacher was down and ready for the opportunity, went in and held the fort, but to his sorrow, the pupils rallied, barred the doors and windows, and some boys climbed to the roof muffled the flue and filled the school room with smoke, and the teacher begged for mercy and promised to treat as soon as he could. On another occasion the teacher was carried to the creek, the ice cut open and he would have gotten a bath had he not promised a treat. Truly, the ways of the non-treating teacher was hard. Sometimes the parents, if they had regard for the teacher, would interpose in his behalf and give the big boys a trouncing—a treat not so much relished, but generally effective, when the old-time old man used a twisted hickory with on a boy, it was not comfortable, to say the least, and the boy generally promised to be good.

Spelling Schools

During the term spelling schools were held from time to time which were very exciting and interesting. The champions on each side would "choose up" for first choice of the spellers and then choose turn about. They generally used the ruler or the hickory in choosing up. One tossed it up perpendicularly and the other caught it in one hand, and he must not move from the place he caught hold of the stick until the other boy put his hand on top, and then they measured the stick hand about till one reached the top, then he would toss it up for the other to catch. This they did the third time, the one getting the top twice out of three times getting first choice. Then the best spellers were chosen in turns, on each side, until all are chosen. The teacher pronounced the words, generally from Sanders, Cobbs or the Electric speller. One speller stood up on either side till he, or she, missed a word and was put down, and another from his side took the place. It was the height of a boy's ambition to be considered the best speller in the school. The spelling would begin at the head or the foot of the class, as the champions decided. A champion generally aimed to save his best speller till the last, unless he felt reasonably sure of knocking the other side down, or with the aid of a few of his best colleagues, and doing it quickly. In that case they would get more battles in the same night, or get to choose up twice and spell for head extra.

Hard Words

Spelling for head was another great interesting feature. The school would start in by the boy or girl who was considered the best speller going to the foot of the class to be made up. Then he would choose the next best speller, then the next best and so on till all were chosen and standing on the floor all around the inside of the school house, and teacher would pronounce a word to the head of the class, now the poorest speller in the school. He generally began at "baker" or "pony," and turned farther over into the book as the contest progressed, finding words harder and harder, from such words as phthisis, carte blanche, glaucom, mnemonics, billeslittres, eleemosynary, daguerreotype, parallelopipedon, generalissimo, etc., into geographical and historical names, such as Apalachicola, Okefinokee, Haver-de-Grace, Ypsilanti, Punxsutawney, Youghiogheny, Skeneateles, Big Sioux, Conococheague, Androskoggin, Raleigh, Saco, Gila, and so on. If he could not "catch" the expert speller in the back of the book he would turn to the pictures or the a, b, c's and give them such words as ax, box, yak, kay, aitch, doubleyou and the like. It was not unusual for some of the boys and girls to know the book so well "by heart" that about midnight a draw would be called to postpone till another night. Those were days when the head of the class meant something.

Playing Ring

One of the pleasant features of the old-time spelling school was the time of recess. As soon as the recess was announced all went quickly to the play ground to have a game of tag ring. The youngsters would join hands and form a ring, the more the better, unless it got too large, when they would form another. One or two would go out and pass around the ring from right to left. If they started the wrong way the crowd called out "rotten eggs." Those who were out in passing around would tag (or tap) some one of the opposite sex, then run around the ring, aiming to get around to the place vacated by the tagged one. But if the one tagged should catch him or her, the catcher would kiss the one caught, and then she would take her place in the ring and await another tag. The popular girl or boy got the most tags. In many instances one would try to be caught. She would make much ado in attempting to run, but would accidentally trip, or turn away into the dark to be caught, and get her punishment. A good round kiss was the only punishment for being caught. But there were some girls that were racers; they would run like wild turkeys, and if you got a kiss from one of them you had to earn it by running, and then struggle hard for it after you caught her. Such girls were most popular in the ring. Few young men cared for the easy girl. Some girls and some young men were too dignified to play, but they invariably looked on.

The Opportunity

During the game of ring was the golden opportunity to ask the girls' permission to see them home after the spelling school was over. After a half hour, or an hour, at the option of the teacher, who often joined in the ring, he would call "books," and they would choose up again for another spelling match, winding up with spelling for head. Sometimes on these occasions men would have no more sense than some have nowadays and raise a quarrel, and perhaps have two or three fights. This was especially so when someone would come with a bottle or two of whiskey in his bootleg.

After the school had been dismissed the young men who came horseback and had a girl engaged would take the girl on behind, providing the horse would carry double, to take her home. If the horse wouldn't carry double, the beau would get someone to ride the horse and he would walk home with the girl. The small boy with a grown sister was always watching his chance to get to ride her sister's beau's horse. This was generally desirable, as the horse would be there for the young man to ride home, sometimes a distance of four or five miles.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup is the one that children like so well to take as it tastes nearly as good as maple sugar. It is different from the others as it does not constipate, but on the other hand it acts gently yet freely on the bowels and thereby it drives the cold out of the system. It is sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

W. R. Ward of Dyersburg, Tenn., writes: "This is to certify that I have used Foley's Orino Laxative for chronic constipation, and it has proven without a doubt to be a thorough, practical remedy for this trouble, and it is with pleasure I offer my conscientious reference." Ed. D. Heckerman.

KITCHEN KINKS

Heat a lemon thoroughly before squeezing and you will obtain nearly double the quantity of juice.

Stiff paper funnels are a great convenience in the kitchen for emptying cereals or other dry articles into glass jars.

Citron which stands awhile is difficult to cut, as it gets extremely hard. If placed in a colander and held over steam for a short while it will regain its original freshness.

Adding a tablespoon of vinegar to the lard in which doughnuts or crullers are fried will prevent them from absorbing too much fat.

Turnips boiled in their jackets like beets are much better than when pared. Adding a little sugar to the water will offset the bitterness.

One often hears complaints that the boiler rusts and ironmolds the clothes. To prevent this, as soon as the boiler is emptied rub well over with soap. This will not only prevent rust, it will also help to make suds for the next boiling.

To keep mice away from pantries and cupboards sprinkle cayenne pepper on the shelves. In boxes and wardrobes put lumps of camphor among the clothes, for mice dislike the smell of it. The camphor must be renewed every now and then, for it evaporates in the air.

Even when the oven is quite right and the pastry has been made moderately rich, a woman will feel dissatisfied at the appearance of a pie, because she misses the rich brown gloss that she has seen on pastry made by practical cooks. To obtain this gloss she needs a wrinkle. It is produced by egg wash. An egg is beaten up with a little sugar and a small quantity of milk is added. With this wash the pie is brushed over after the pastry has been finished.

Thinks it Saved His Life

Lester M. Nelson of Naples, Me., says in a recent letter: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery many years, for coughs and colds, and I think it saved my life. I have found it a reliable remedy for throat and lung complaints, and would no more be without a bottle than I would be without food." For nearly forty years New Discovery has stood at the head of throat and lung remedies. As a preventive of pneumonia, and healer of weak lungs it has no equal. Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

London Bridge

Proud and lowly, beggar and lord,
Over the bridge they go;
Rags and velvet, fetter and sword,
Poverty, pomp and woe.
Laughing, weeping, hurrying ever,
Hour by hour they crowd along.
While, below, the mighty river
Sings them all a mocking song—
Hurry along, sorrow and song,
All is vanity 'neath the sun;
Velvet and rags, so the world wags,
Until the river no more shall run.

Dainty, painted, powdered and gay,
Rolleth my lady by;
Rags and tatters over the way
Carries a heart as high.
Flowers and dreams from country meadows,
Dust and din through city skies,
Old men creeping with their shadows,
Children with their sunny eyes—
Hurry along, sorrow and song,
All is vanity 'neath the sun;
Velvet and rags, so the world wags,
Until the river no more shall run.
—F. E. Weatherly.

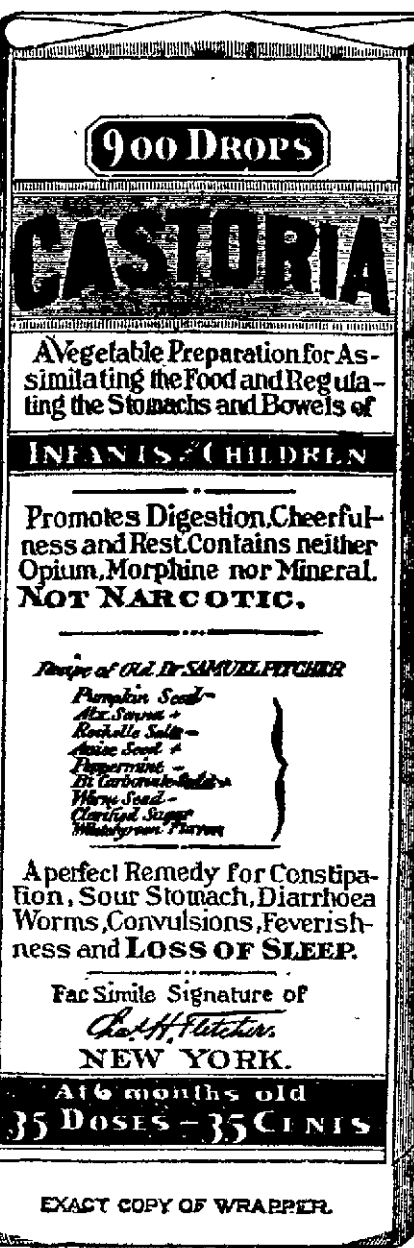

Storm and sunshine, peace and strife,
Over the bridge they go;
Floating on the tide of life,
Whither no man shall know.
Who will miss them there tomorrow,
Waifs that drift to the shade or sun?
Gone away with their songs and sorrow;
Only the river still flows on.
Hurry along, sorrow and song,
All is vanity 'neath the sun;
Velvet and rags, so the world wags,
Until the river no more shall run.
—F. E. Weatherly.

Mrs. S. L. Bowen of Wayne, W. Va., writes: "I was a sufferer from kidney disease, so that at times I could not get out of bed, and when I did I could not stand straight. I took Foley's Kidney Remedy. One dollar bottle and part of the second cured me entirely." Foley's Kidney Remedy works wonders where others are a total failure. Ed. D. Heckerman.

HECKERMAN LETTER

Enjoying the Early Vegetables
 "Down in Dixie."

Washington, D. C., June 17.
 Well, well, here I am back from the southwestern trip that I started on April 15 and since that time I have visited an average of sixteen towns a week. In many of these I never went near a hotel; this is particularly so in the states of Ohio and Indiana, where the traveling man is aided so much in transit by the trolley cars. In most of the cities I have two to six men to see. As I have learned to know just who the buyers for the various wholesale houses are, where their desks are and all that sort of thing, it does not take me long to get next to them.

I am writing from the Howard House, where I have stopped for twenty years, when coming to the Capital. This hotel is directly in front of the old P. R. R. depot, fronting on Pennsylvania avenue and Sixth street. 'Tis home for me when in the city, and the manager, Harry Mitchel, has been here so long that he is getting quite gray in the service and there is no nicer or more accommodating hotel man anywhere than this same Harry Mitchel. I doubt if the hotel would enjoy half so much of its popularity were it not for him. The rates are $2 per day and you get the worth of your money save in climbing the silver stairs; the elevator will be finished soon and so will the street car lines to the new depot, so that we will soon be saved the hardship of totting our grips over two blocks in order to get a street car for up town.

I was attacked on coming to the city this time by very many boys—I might say hundreds of them. "Mr. buy a tag, buy a tag," at the same time pushing in my face a big bunch of tags. As I had not seen a paper or heard anything about this tag business, I was completely taken back. I asked, however, and soon learned the upshot of the whole affair was to raise money to help the children of Washington, and June 13 was tag day. I send you mine that you may see it. The stores were tagged, each card costing a dollar and some had as many as a hundred cards. Every man, woman and child, big or little, white or brown, had one or more of these tags tied to their clothes. I hope to see the report of the day and have a bet with a friend of mine that the receipts will exceed ten thousand dollars, and all given for the good of the children of Washington. [Later—I lost my bet, as the receipts were only a little over five thousand dollars.] This much was given in one day for the happiness and good of those unable to enjoy anything at their own expense.

Since writing you I have been up the Yadkin Valley as far as North Wilkesboro, N. C., and all along this beautiful river one could see the reapers at work cutting and binding the wheat, which is a very good crop. The corn in that section was backward, some of it being planted for the first time while others, that was planted before the long rainy spell, is now knee high and looks very well. In this country they plant and plow the corn but one way. I object to this way because it is such hard work to keep the corn free of weeds. The blackberries are ripe and oh! what a fine crop there is. When the train on the Southern road stalls, which is not infrequent, we get out and gather berries and thus satisfy our hunger. I have had green corn on the cob and it tasted mighty good, you bet.

There is no trouble down in Virginia or North Carolina about the night riders. The farmers are planting a great deal of tobacco and that which has been planted for a few weeks looks fine, having every appearance of making the farmer at least money enough with which to buy salt for his cornbread. By the way, this North Carolina cornbread is a caution—made from white cornmeal, water and salt, mixed up into a dough and then baked quickly. I can't eat it and get the ha! ha! from the boys every few days because I ask for white or light bread. I recently told a young lady who longed for some good North Carolina cornbread and good old ham, that it was no wonder she looked so pale and sorrowful. She asked why and I said because she ate that which required too much effort to digest. She laughed and so did Dad. I have been having plenty of fried spring chicken, sometimes get it three times a day. Now, if these people would only prepare it as at home what a treat it would be, but they serve it swimming in grease half an inch deep instead of having some nice cream gravy.

The buttermilk we get at hotels down in Dixie can't be surpassed. You see they churn every morning and we get the good sweet buttermilk for dinner. Cantaloupes and watermelons are plenty. One can buy elegant cantaloupes for five cents and watermelons for twenty-five.

I recently saw a lady in North Carolina doing four things at once. She sat inside the door minding the store, which was one thing; at her right hand stood a gallon stone churn and she was manipulating that with her right hand, (second); a cradle with a squalling baby in it was rocked by her left foot (third), and in her left hand was a book, "Slow Train thro Arkansas" (four).

Yours truly,
 M. P. Heckerman.

Bride's Cake

Three-fourths of a cupful of butter, two cupfuls of sugar, half a cupful of milk, three cupfuls of pastry flour, the whites of six eggs, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one teaspoonful of essence of lemon. Cream the butter; add the sugar gradually, mixing well, then the essence, milk, a little of the flour, the egg whites beaten to a stiff froth, and the remainder of the flour, in which the baking powder has been mixed. Turn into a buttered round pan and bake in a moderately hot oven. Frost the top and sides thickly and let it set; then if one is a little artistic she can decorate with more frosting in leaf and floral designs.

Wedding Cake Four Stories High.
 A wedding cake four stories high and weighing 240 pounds was a novelty of the wedding of Prince Charles of Bourbon and Princess Louise of France. The cake was furnished by a well-known London baking firm. From top to bottom it was 52 inches. The circumference of the bottom cake was 81 inches. The flags of France and Spain surmounted the top or fourth tier, on which also was placed a temple of Hymen bearing the royal crown of France. A coat of arms of the Duc D'Orleans was modeled in sugar with appropriate colorings. The armorial bearings of Spain in white and gold ornamented the second tier.

Today's Suggestion by Ellen Stan.

ONE PIECE CORSET COVER.

THERE are two styles of corset covers in the one piece variety, the one with seams over the shoulders only and the other with underarm seams. Both designs fit equally well, so it is a question of which one prefers.

For a slender person that needs to be filled out a pattern that is full both back and front and drawn up at the waist line with ribbon should be selected. For a stout person a plain back with slight fullness at the waist line and a front that has sufficient fullness to give the pattern an easy fit is desirable.

Under this corset cover very stout figures should wear the fitted and boned cover, which reduces the size of the bust at least two inches without discomfort or injury. They are made from heavy muslin or drilling and are shaped in front with real whale-bones.

In the back they are held in place with button and loop of tape and cross in surplice style at the waist, from which point the tapes are brought around and tied in the front. These covers can be bought at high class stores, but are expensive. They can be made at home for 50 cents apiece. When buying a pattern see that the bust is two inches smaller than you ordinarily wear.

The five and seven gored petticoats are most desirable for all figures, this number of gores being sufficient to fit over the hips and give a pretty flare at the bottom. They also prevent the material from stretching when laundered, and thus the petticoat is kept from sagging on the sides, as would a three gored or one piece model.

The length of the petticoats depend upon the outside skirt with which they are worn. When finished they should come one inch above the bottom of the outside skirt. This will prevent the underskirt from showing below the gown, which is very ugly.

A dust ruffle is sewed to the edge of the gored skirt.

This corset cover is in one piece with underarm seams. The pattern is cut in nine sizes—from 32 to 48 inches bust measure. To copy this garment for the average person it requires 2 yards of flouncing 17 inches wide; 1½ yards of edging and 1¼ yards of beading are needed.

Any reader of this paper who desires to secure this pattern may do so by sending 10 cents to this office. Give the number, 4091, state size desired and write the full address plainly. The pattern will be forwarded promptly by mail.

Nature has provided the stomach with certain natural fluids known as the digestive juices, and it is through these juices that the food we eat is acted upon in such a way as to produce the rich, red blood that flows through the veins of our body and thereby makes us strong, healthy and robust, and it is the weakening of these digestive juices that destroys health. It is our own fault if we destroy our own health, and yet it is so easy for any one to put the stomach out of order. When you need to take something take it promptly, but take something you know is reliable—something like Kodol For Dyspepsia and Indigestion. Kodol is pleasant to take, it is reliable and is guaranteed to give relief. It is sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

A Minute Lamp
 Physicians occasionally use, for the purpose of illuminating parts of the body, a delicate electric lamp, called the "pea lamp," because its little glass bulb resembles a small pea in size being only one-quarter of an inch in diameter. It is, nevertheless, a complete incandescent lamp, having a carbon film one-eighth of an inch long and about one two-thousandth of an inch in diameter—Woman's Life.

Hot Weather Dessert.

The foundation for this delicious dessert, pineapple cream, is a can of pineapple or a pineapple large enough to fill a pint measure when shredded. Shred very fine and bring to a boil with a pound of sugar. Strain over half an ounce of gelatin which has been dissolved in just enough cold water to cover it. When cool, but not yet formed, stir in the beaten whites of three eggs and half a pint of whipped cream. Pour into a mold and set on ice to cool. If you use the canned, shredded pineapple, which is almost like preserves, you will not need to add the sugar.

Thoughts for the Day

Nature reveals God; art reveals man, whose soul is working outward on material things and so reproduces an external sign of the internal nature.

The thing and the duty you can do today is the one you ought to do today.

Our cares are oftentimes our blessings murmured at. Her child is a mother's blessing and her care.

The world is very forgetful, it needs constant reminders. If it could only tie a string around its finger to help it remember!

We should pay respect to wealthy men not because of their wealth but because of the genius or power which became the creator of wealth.

If, as the Germans say, "Poverty is a sixth sense," then very few men in this world have only five senses.

Wisdom consists in knowing what to say and do next.

Men long to be loved. "Hang it!" said Charles Lamb, "How I like to be liked, and what I do to be liked!"

H. B. T.

NO HUMBUG

No humbug claims have to be made for Foley's Honey and Tar, the well known remedy for coughs, colds and lung troubles. The fact that more bottles of Foley's Honey and Tar are used than of any other cough remedy is the best testimonial of its great merit. Why then risk taking some unknown preparation when Foley's Honey and Tar costs you no more and is safe and sure. Ed. D. Heckerman.

Sour Cream Pie

Every move at the Chicago convention bears the Roosevelt stamp.

Several of the planks of the Chicago platform required much planing and when done were found to contain many loose knots.

Soon as the national conventions are over we may look for another promise of the completion of the Cessna branch; of course the promise will not fix the time of the completion before election day—and it may contain conditions.

THAT CAPITAL TRIAL

Although Congressman H. Burd Cassel and Architect Joseph M. Huston have been acquitted of the charge of conspiracy to rob the state they are by no means innocent of the robbery.

An individual cannot conspire but an individual can overcharge. While it was not proved that there was any understanding between or among those who were tried upon the charge of conspiracy, the bold facts brought out during the trial prove conclusively that the state paid too much for the articles purchased from Cassel's company and the architect should have discovered the fraud. The defendants admitted "mistakes" in the measurements by the "per foot" rule but those into whose coffers the unearned thousands went have not returned to the state treasury any part of that which they fraudulently or "by mistake" obtained. Civil suits should be instituted to recover that which was filched from the state treasury, by grafters without conspiring. A conspirator is a grafter and a crook or a grafter may or may not be guilty of conspiracy but he is always a crook.

Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Miller of Pine Ridge, while returning from Rock Hill Christian church Wednesday night, after the delivery of a lecture by Rev. Miller, met with a serious accident. Their horse frightened and ran away, throwing Mr. and Mrs. Miller out. Mrs. Miller had two fingers of her left hand broken and another almost severed. Mr. Miller was considerably bruised but not seriously.

New Paris

June 17—Herbert B. Hull and wife, of New Enterprise, were guests in our village on Saturday and Sunday.

Charles Rose, Harry Rose and Dorsey Long, of Johnstown, are on an "outing" for a short time.

Mrs. Elizabeth Long of Pittsburgh and her sister, Mrs. Mary Shaffer, of Johnstown were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Long over Sunday.

Ralph Suter and Miss Ruie Suter, of Berlin, are spending a vacation in our vicinity among friends.

Miss Eudora Sleek of Johnstown was a welcome visitor in our midst during the past week.

Ellsworth Otto of Pittsburgh, Herbert Otto, wife and daughter and Kenneth Sleek, of Wilkinsburg, are spending a few weeks among home friends.

On Tuesday morning, June 16, Rev. J. B. Miller had the pleasure of tying a matrimonial knot for Levi R. Smith of near Helixville and Miss Annie E. Bence, daughter of William Bence, of near Fyan.

Rev. Gumbert of the Reformed church preached to his congregation at this place on Sunday afternoon—the first since he moved to this charge.

Messrs. G. William Crane and R. M. Zeigler of the U. S. Geological Survey are in our community taking notes and marking the elevations of our public roads, and it is certainly a satisfaction to know how far above sea-level we are located. From work that has already been done, their work, and work to follow, maps or sheets will be constructed which will include a territory of about eighteen miles in length and fifteen miles in width, and will indicate all roads, elevations and a topographical sketch of the country. In our village where Chestnut street crosses Main street, the elevation is 1,276.8 feet. New Paris will be included in the Bedford sheet, which extends from a short distance east of Bedford to Crumb in Somerset county. The sheet east of us is known as the Everett sheet.

The Love-Feast held in the German Baptist church on Friday evening was largely attended. In addition to the many who took part in the services, there were communicants from Johnstown, Windber, Imbertown, New Enterprise, Loysburg and Hyndman. The meeting which had been in progress for more than a week, closed on Sunday evening with a sermon by Rev. Levi Holsinger of New Enterprise on the topic "Five Lines." He said the first line we all have crossed—the line of our existence. The second line most of us have crossed—the line of accountability. The third line some of us have crossed—the line between the kingdom of the world and the kingdom of Christ. The fourth line we all must cross—the line of death. The fifth line none of us will cross—the line between heaven and hell. There were two accessions to the church.

James Ralston of Wilmerding recently spent a short vacation here among friends.

Taylor Horn is home from college for a few weeks' vacation.

Mrs. J. A. Grazer and daughter Ethel, of Johnstown, were calling on friends in our vicinity recently.

Mrs. W. V. Taylor of Schellsburg spent last week among relatives and friends of her former home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Holderbaum and son Warren spent Sunday, June 7, at Osterburg with friends.

Rev. D. H. Miller, pastor of the U. B. church, has resigned on account of his health.

Bedford County Pomona Grange held at this place on June 2 was well attended and a good interest manifested. Those present from a distance were S. B. Brown and wife, of Buffalo Mills; C. L. King of Loysburg, Charles Koontz and wife, of Cessna; George Z. Replogle, Charles W. Croyle, Jacob Kauffman and Clay Woodcock, of Woodbury. During the evening session steps were taken to organize a county Grange Insurance Company.

Eye-Sight Specialist

Dr. J. N. Helman,

Pittsburg, Pa., will be in

BEDFORD

2 Days Next Week,

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY,

June 24 and 25,

at the

BEDFORD HOUSE,

For the purpose of testing the sight and the fitting of glasses. EXAMINATIONS ARE FREE. Prices from $2 to $8. All lenses guaranteed for two years and any change or re-correction needed within that time is made free of charge. Overcoming headaches and all cases of defective vision our specialty. We do not peddle. Those wishing to consult us may call at the hotel; all will be treated courteously whether an order is given or not.

HYPERMETROPIA OR FAR SIGHT

Is the cause of more tired eyes, headaches and nervous headaches, than any other cause, especially among scholars or ladies that do a great deal of sewing, lace work or reading, and will cause one or more of the following troubles: Steady pains back of the eyes, shooting pains in eyes, periodical or regular steady headaches in the top, side or back of the head, or a sensation that the hair has been combed the opposite way from what you have been used to, or a tenderness of the scalp, or a feeling that the scalp is tightening or contracting, or pains extending down from the back of the head to the spine or extending to the shoulders, accompanied by frequent dizziness if you turn quickly, or sick stomach, or if very nervous, a languid or tired feeling and poor memory, although your vision may seem good. You may rest assured that it is not, if you have any of these symptoms.

NOTICE

During my last visit here, several persons were in to see me regarding glasses they had purchased from a man who peddled from door to door, and who claimed to stop at the Bedford House every month. I am the only eye-specialist who makes regular monthly visits to the above hotel, and can only be seen there on the dates given, as I do not peddle or employ any solicitors. Therefore, if you have been intending to see me, come to the hotel on the above dates or during any other of my visits.

WHAT, $15!

Jack, you surely don't mean to tell me that you got that nobby tailor-made suit for $15? I certainly did, Charley; wouldn't have believed it myself, but I noticed how well dressed a lot of the other fellows looked in Royal Tailor Clothes that I called on McClintic, The Royal Tailor man, to see the complete line. Good selection? why gracious alive, Charley, you never saw such a collection of dressy suit patterns in all your life as McClintic has for this one season alone—hundreds and hundreds of samples in light browns, dark browns, tan, slate, pencil stripes, etc., at any price you want to pay—all the very latest patterns, and the beauty of ordering tailor-made clothes is that you can pick out what you want and have the suit made up exactly to please you. Like you and a great many others, Charley, I never wore tailor-made clothes because I thought their prices away above my pocketbook; of course this is true with most tailors, but The Royal Tailors, why, Charley, they actually order a carload of some patterns alone, and McClintic has at least 900 samples for spring and summer wear. No wonder they can sell at rock bottom prices when they take the entire product of several of the largest woolen mills in this country and Europe. Why, Charley, he has over a hundred samples at $12.50; yes sir! a complete suit at $12.50. I know I have paid eighteen dollars for ready-made suits not as good as many of the samples I examined. Never did get a hand-me-down suit to please me; had to have it butchered in an attempt to make it fit or take something I did not want. Well, Jack, that Royal Tailor suit could not possibly fit you better. I don't see how, Charley, and its the most comfortable suit I ever wore and it keeps its shape, too—Royal Tailoring for me from now on. You will find McClintic's sample room opposite the Fisher House at Bedford.

Mann's Choice

June 17—Children's services were held in the Grace Reformed and the M. E. churches last Sunday. The day was fine and a good crowd attended the best arranged programs held here for years. The instructors deserve much credit for their work and the manner of bringing the children before a large audience.

Vegetation was refreshed here a little on Monday by a shower.

The borough dads are having our streets cleaned and applying some cinder and gravel to the much-needed places. Let the good work go on. It is needed on several streets in the borough.

Frank Dumont, who is employed by Rev. Warlick at the stone quarry, is reported on the sick list.

Jacob Smith, wife and daughter Edie, of Tull's Hill, Howard Diehl and wife, of Buffalo Mills, are among those from a distance who attended Children's Day services here on Sunday.

Mrs. Johnnie Kiper was shopping in town today.

George Ferguson of Springhope spent Saturday night at the home of our friend, William Clark.

Mrs. John Struckman and Mrs. Jacob Hoover attended the reunion at Saxton on Tuesday.

H. H. Harclerode and son Nick were Hyndman visitors Saturday and Sunday.

Harvey Ruby of Milliken's Cove was in town on Monday.

The new school house is being completed as fast as possible. When done Mann's Choice may well feel proud of her building.

Mrs. S. E. Leonard and daughter Nellie, of Hyndman, spent Saturday and Sunday here as guests of J. W. Leonard and family.

Our streets are too narrow for the "Merry Widow" hats, so there are not many worn around here.

Edward Serichfield and family, of the Flood City, are spending a week or two visiting friends and relatives in and around Mann's Choice. Grit.

Imbertown

June 16—Joseph and William Smith passed through here on Tuesday.

moved home to the Nicodemus tenant house.

Charles Imler was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Sparks at Earlston over Sunday.

William Ross and daughter, of Ohio, were visiting Frank Imler a few days last week.

W. S. Reed, the Bedford insurance agent, and wife passed through here on Thursday.

Mr. Drew and daughter, of Point, spent a day last week with Dr. Di- bert.

Frank Russell and wife and Mrs. Cobber were visiting in Mann's Choice Saturday.

Rev. Diehl was the guest of Frank Russell on Wednesday.

Miss Nellie Kerr left Sunday evening for Juniata College where she will spend the week.

Mrs. Fred Walter and friends were visitors at S. S. Mock's on Sunday.

Quite a number of our young folks attended the Children's Service at Messiah church Sunday evening.

Wilson and Calvin Imler left Monday for Frederickburg, O.

Miss Ella Imler is visiting her sister, Mrs. William Smith, of Foxton.

Children's Service will be held in the Reformed church Sunday, June 21.

Mrs. Sarah Fetter was visiting in this place Monday. Fraulien.

Imler

June 16—We had a very fine rain Sunday afternoon, which was much needed.

The Union Sunday school at this place rendered an excellent service Sunday afternoon.

Dr. W. L. Van Ormer will visit this place Wednesday and Thursday, June 24 and 25.

Some person or persons poisoned a valuable hound for V. A. Finnegan last Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Way spent Sunday at George Hancock's.

Mrs. Elizabeth Roudabush and daughter, of St. Clairsville, and Mrs. Elizabeth Geisler of Churchville visited friends here between trains on Saturday.

Dr. J. W. Lindsay took a patient to Philadelphia last Thursday.

Mason's butcher wagon has begun its weekly trips for the summer.

J. Warren Imler Sundayed with home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lingenfelter and family, of East Freedom, spent some time with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beagle.

Mrs. Margaret Brant and son Ransom Sundayed in this vicinity.

J. A. Imler and V. A. Finnegan are busy loading bark at the railroad.

Scott Fetter of Imbertown moved the stone crusher from Herbert Beagle's to Osterburg where they expect to crush limestone for the road.

Fyan

June 16—Landis Eskins, who left his home some time ago, has returned. He says he will now settle down as a boy has no business away from home in these Republican hard times.

Miss Emma Weyant is spending some time at Scalp Level.

Harry and Effie Deaner spent Sunday with friends at Spring Hope.

Dr. T. F. Baly of Schellsburg made a call in our vicinity on Thursday.

Forrest Hillegass caught a fine lot of eels the past week.

Simon McCreary recently sold his fine rubber tired run-a-bout to M. S. Darr.

John Bence is very much elated over the arrival of a fine baby girl at his home recently.

W. H. Deaner and wife and Henry Ellenberger spent Sunday with relatives on Smoky Ridge.

Will Deaner is putting a galvanized steel roof on his barn, which when completed will add greatly to the appearance of his property. Findley Brothers, of Helixville, are doing the work.

George Deaner was busily engaged a few days the past week in putting on several new roofs in our village for A. E. Fyan.

The smiling face of Sawley Hillegass was seen in our town not long ago.

Peter Hillegass recently opened a new saddler shop in town.

Richard Mowry spent some time in our town Monday as the guest of M. S. Darr. Dick's hunting stories are quite entertaining.

Ross Hillegass made a short call here Saturday evening.

The wedding bells will sound this week. Boys, be ready with your musical instruments for an evening's fun.

A. P. Hillegass and Henry Ellenberger spent Friday at the county capital on business.

Espy Dull and son William, of Buffalo Mills, spent Sunday at George Fisher's.

Hooligan.

Centreville

June 17—Mrs. John V. Nave of Connellsville has returned home after spending several weeks with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Doyle.

C. D. Rose and son Clyde, of York, are spending a few weeks here and in Somerset county where his wife and children are.

The ball game on the 6th between Centreville and Hyndman resulted in a score of 10 to 3 in favor of Centreville.

The entertainment given by the Hyndman boys was well performed, well conducted and well patronized. The boys were very liberal with their band music.

Calvin Bruner has returned from a visit to Pittsburgh.

Ambrose Cessna was a Hyndman visitor on Monday.

Mrs. James C. Miller and Mrs. Elizabeth Ressler are spending a few weeks at Fostoria, O., visiting their brothers and friends.

George Knece, who was bitten by a copper head snake some time ago, is around again.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Rose went to Bedford today to meet their daughter Arvilla from West Chester School who will spend her summer vacation at home with her parents.

Berton Barkley of Rainsburg is spending the week among relatives in this community.

The ball game between Centreville and Rainsburg Saturday was stopped in the last half of the seventh inning on account of the umpire not allowing the change of pitchers at this point. The game stood 13 to 8 in favor of Centreville. The visiting team left the field.

BIG SALE

NOW GOING ON AT THIS STORE,

The Metropolitan Clothing and Shoe House, Bedford, Pa.

We received letter after letter from people all over the county asking and begging us not to close our Sale on the date previously stated. Some people write us and say, "Please do not close your sale for a while yet; we would like to come in to your store and be fitted out but we won't have any money until the following week." Other people write us and say, "Kindly continue your sale a while longer; we have been late with our work and couldn't come in. We want your goods and if you continue your sale everybody from this section will appreciate it, and it will give us a chance to buy." After all these kind of arguments and taking everything into consideration, We Comply With the Request of the People and our

FARM NOTES

Don't keep your ducks in damp quarters and on hard, cold boards. Furnish clean, soft litter and be decent.

Don't sell duck eggs for a song. They command a high price for He-brew trade. Write to an egg house for prices.

Don't keep oyster shell too long. The sea salts draws moisture, and the shell gets soft. It's dirty and out of date anyhow.

Don't forget to save those duck feathers. Feather beds are no longer lightning protectors, but there's nothing better for a boll than a duck feather cushion.

Don't undervalue those bantams. They lay many eggs, take up less room and eat little. Let the boys have a flock.

Don't forget that pheasants aren't canaries. They are ornamental, but not to hang among window curtains.

Don't house pheasants with other stock. Give them lots of room and fresh air. Let them go.

Don't mix turkeys, chickens and geese. Birds of one feather should flock together.

Secret of Popularity

It is not hard to be popular if one can cultivate certain virtues. The popular woman may have decided opinions of her own, but she does not try to force them down the throat of relative or friend. She never allows holidays to pass without proper observances which bring pleasure to others, and never sees slights of any description, that is, she never appears to see them.

She may have sensitive feelings in abundance, but nobody knows of their existence. She never talks of them and never acknowledges them by taking offense at the words and acts of others. She may find it necessary to cut apart a friendship or drop an acquaintance, but both are done so quietly that she is never suspected. Perhaps you think popularity is not worth all this—well, just ask the popular woman. She will convince you. A great many pleasures go with popularity and the indulgence of ill feeling, rudeness or wounded feelings is no more than a passing feeling of gratification.

The Benefits of Our Panics

Every industrial collapse which the country has had has brought some needed financial improvement. The panic of 1837 compelled Congress to establish the independent treasury, in which the Government, ever since that time, has had control of its own funds. The panic of 1857, by destroying many of the wildcat banks, compelled changes in the laws in many states which strengthened the banking system of the country. One of the measures of the Civil War legislation was the creation of the national banking system. The panic of 1873 forced the dominant party to pass the greenback redemption bill of 1875, which went into operation in 1879, which brought all the country's currency up to the gold level in that year, and which has kept it up to that line ever since. The panic of 1893 compelled us to stop buying silver for the dilution of our currency, and thus saved us from a worse catastrophe later on.

I am not calling the flurry of 1907 a panic. Unlike the convulsions just mentioned there has been no general dislocation in the country's industrial and financial scheme. We have neither wildcat state bank notes nor irredeemable greenbacks to combat now, nor have we debased silver. Every dollar of all sorts of American currency is worth one hundred cents in gold today. Our industrial and financial conditions are inherently solid.—James W. Van Cleave in American Industries for June.

NOTES

A $10 violin in tune turns out better music than a $1000 piano out of tune.

There are two good ways to judge a man—by what he doesn't pay and by what he doesn't say.

One of the mockeries of life is how surprised a girl's family always seems when a fellow asks for her hand after they have arranged it.

The secret of getting along with people is to think about them more than you think of yourself. When folks fail you, talk to books.

Any boarding house mistress will tell you that often the people who have the front rooms are behind in their rent.

The man who is always complaining that people are imposing on his good nature is pretty sure to have a hazy idea of what good nature is.

Corn Cosmetic

A cheap and most effective cosmetic—because it gets at the root of the matter—is white corn meal mixed with sour milk or buttermilk. Half a teaspoon full at a time is an abundance. Wash face and hands with it thoroughly. A little grated horseradish added will aid in removing the heaviest tan in a few hours.

Words of Praise

For the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, as given by leaders in all the several schools of medicine, should have far more weight than any amount of non-professional testimony. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has many boxes of honesty on every bottle wrapper, in a full list of all its ingredients printed in plain English.

If you are an invalid woman and suffer from frequent headache, backache, gnawing distress in stomach, periodical pains, disordered system, catarrhal, pelvic drain, dragging down distress in lower abdomen or pelvis, perhaps dark spots or specks dancing before the eyes, faint spells and kindred symptoms caused by female weakness, or the derangement of the feminine organs, you can not do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

The hospital, surgeon's knife and operating table may be avoided by the timely use of "Favorite Prescription" in such cases. Thereby the obnoxious examinations and local treatments of the family physician can be avoided and a thorough course of successful treatment carried out in the privacy of the home. "Favorite Prescription" is composed of the very best native medicinal roots known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, contains no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs.

Do not expect too much from "Favorite Prescription"; it will not perform miracles; it will not dissolve or cure tumors. No medicine will. It will do as much to establish vigorous health in most weaknesses and ailments peculiarly incident to women as any medicine can. It must be given a fair chance by perseverance in its use for a reasonable length of time.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this remedy of known composition.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best laxative and regulator of the bowels. They invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Only a laxative; two or three a cathartic. Easy to take as candy.

WHEN DRESSING

Never boast that you can dress in five minutes.

No woman who has any respect for her appearance will attempt to dress in double that time.

It is true in dressing, as in everything else, that where there is great haste there is little speed.

It is particularly trying for any woman to dress in a hurry.

She gets flurried and in her attempt to put in pins sticks her fingers and probably stains her blouse with blood.

Buttons come off, laces break, gloves and veils cannot be found.

When at last she is ready she is conscious of appearing her worst instead of at her best.

The five-minute dressing habit is one that the carefully dressed woman will never indulge in.

Any skin itching is a temper-tester. The more you scratch the worse it itches. Doan's Ointment cures piles, eczema—any skin itching. At all drug stores.

Famous Women of Old

Few things interest succeeding generations more than the love affairs of bygone celebrities. Whatever our attitude may be toward those who in our day defy the conventions, there is no denying our consuming curiosity about famous women who in the past have strayed from the path of virtue. Of all the names, indeed, handed down to us in history, it is a significant fact that those which command our greatest interest and sympathy are invariably those who, like Cleopatra and Aspasia, Diane de Poitiers and Mary Queen of Scots, Lady Hamilton and the various women of the salons, were distinguished by conduct which would not have permitted of their remaining on our visiting list today.—Ladies' Field.

Persevere.

I have often heard people in mature life say, "If I had only kept on as I had begun, if I had only persisted in carrying out my ambition, I might have amounted to something and been infinitely happier."

Multitudes of people have led miserable lives of regret, with thwarted ambitions constantly torturing them, simply because in a moment of weakness and discouragement they turned back.

If there is any time a person needs nerve, grit and stamina it is when tempted to turn back, when the coward voice within says: "Don't you see how foolish it is for you to try to do this thing? You have not the means or the strength. How foolish to sacrifice years of comfort and pleasure at home among the people who love you for the sake of doing what you have undertaken! It is better to turn back and acknowledge your mistake than to go on and sacrifice so much." Whatever you do or how heavy the burden, do not lay it down at such a time. No matter how dark the way or how heavy the heart, wait until the "blue" depression or the dis courage ment has passed before taking any decided step.—Success Magazine.

Customs of the Street.

In crowded city streets, especially in London and Paris, when a driver is halted by another driver ahead of him he throws up his hand or his whip peculiarly as a warning to the man back of him. Thus warned, the driver checks his team and then holds his hand or his whip as a warning to the man back of him. Thus there might be seen going up one after another in a line stretching back hands or whips to the number of half a dozen or more as the drivers were successively halted or slowed down by the blockade in front. So of drivers of horse drawn vehicles whose drivers commonly sit high where their hands or whips can be seen above their heads. This signaling is done somewhat differently by the drivers of automobiles, who sit low. So in such circumstances what the automobile driver does to signal to the man back of him that he is held up is to stretch his arm out outside of his vehicle horizontally to the right.—Washington Post.

The Oldest Forename.

In ancient times people had one name only, as Adam or David, and in order to distinguish persons of the same name it was the custom to affix the description "son of" Isaac or Joseph, as the case might be. Thus we get Solomon ben David among the Hebrews and Evan ap Richard among the Welsh, to quote two examples. Although the argument that those names were not strictly "forenames" is not without weight, yet it is responsible to accept them as such, seeing that the application had to be supplemented by another for the sake of distinction. We are therefore entitled to include them within the scope of the question. Adam and other early Biblical names are regarded as the oldest for obvious reasons; but, excluding these, the choice falls upon Marmaduke, which is the modern rendering of the ancient Chaldean Meriduk, also written Maruduk and Lerodach, the god who interceded constantly between the angry Ea and the humble Damikna, his father and mother. The Romans used both forenames and family names, and of the former two that date back about 2,500 years are still with us—namely, Marcus and Lucius, represented in modern tongues by Mark and the feminine Lucy. The old form Marcus is still retained in some families.

Thoughtful Man.

A lady who is subject to heart disease took tea last Sunday with a neighbor, and while sitting at table her husband rushed in without a hat and in his shirt sleeves.

"Be calm!" he exclaimed hurriedly to his wife. "Don't excite yourself. You know you can't stand excitement, and it might be worse!"

"Good gracious!" cried the wife. "The children!"

"They're all right. Now, Mary, don't get excited. Keep calm and cool. It can't be helped now. We must bear these visitations of Providence with philosophy."

"Then it's mother!" gasped the wife. "Your mother's safe. Get on your things, but don't hurry or worry. It's too late to be of any use, but I'll fly back and see what I can do. I only came to tell you not to get excited."

"For mercy sake," implored the almost fainting woman, "tell me the worst!"

"Well, if you will have it, the consequences be on your own head, Mary. I've tried to prepare you, and if you will know—don't excite yourself; try and keep calm—but our kitchen chimney's on fire, and all the neighbors are in our front garden!"

THE BELL IN THE SEA

How Ocean Liners Hear Their Way In Thick Weather.

FOG SIGNALS UNDER WATER.

Method by Which the Submerged Gong Is Operated and the Apparatus by Which the Sound Is Picked Up Miles Away—Port and Starboard Lights.

To those who go down to the sea in ships probably no discovery in recent times has been of more importance or tends more to save life than that of the possibility of signaling from ship to ship and from ship to shore by sound, writes Sidney F. Walker in the London Mail. It literally, when fully developed, will enable steamers to "hear" their way under all conditions of weather and particularly in fog just as well as they now see their way on clear nights by the aid of the lights that each ship carries and those distributed round the coast of every civilized country.

The whole apparatus hinges upon the fact that water is a good conductor of sound. The readiest example of this of which the writer is aware is to be found usually at mineral baths. There is nearly always pumping going on in connection with the baths, but under ordinary conditions the pump is not heard. When undressing, for instance, to enter the bath one can very rarely hear the pump, but immediately one is in the bath if one places one's head under water the pump is almost painfully evident, and an engineer could easily count the strokes had he a watch at hand.

For signaling purposes a bell is employed, immersed some distance under the water and inclosed in a chamber, the hammer being worked by compressed air operated from the surface. The sound of the strokes on the bell is transmitted to a distance of several miles and can be heard by suitable apparatus. The hearing apparatus consists of a microphone, a modification of that we use every time we speak to the telephone, inclosed in a chamber inside the ship and connected with the bridge by wires in the usual way. The microphone chamber is filled with a special liquid which the inventors have found to answer the purpose best, and there are, as at present arranged, one chamber and one microphone on each bow below the water line. In the chart house on the bridge are a pair of telephone receivers, similar to those we put to our ears when we talk through the telephone on shore, and a switch, enabling the receivers to be connected to either of the two microphones.

Several of the lighthouses on the coast of America and some, the writer believes, on that of the United Kingdom are fitted with bells as described above, which are rung at certain intervals, each lighthouse having a different number of beats, so that any particular lighthouse is distinguished by its bell, just as in clear weather it is distinguished by the arrangement of its lights. An approaching ship can tell within a very close approximation, as mathematicians would say, how it lies with regard to the lighthouse, because the bell will be heard loudest in that microphone on the side of the ship on which the lighthouse is, and the officer of the watch can steer accordingly.

All ships carry a red light at night on the left hand, or port, side and a green light on the right hand, or starboard side, while all steamers carry in addition a white light showing on both sides. Neither of the lights can be seen astern or for some distance toward the bows, the limit being what sailors call two points abaft the beam, a little astern of her middle point, so that when approaching a ship from astern no lights are visible to the approaching ship, but her full lights are visible from the ship approached.

When two ships are approaching each other from opposite directions end on, each ship will see the other's two or three lights and can easily steer to keep out of each other's way. There is a simple rule for this, and incidentally it may be mentioned that the danger is least in this case, provided that both ships are properly handled. The danger of collision arises principally from ships crossing each other, and for this also there are simple rules governed by what is called the rule of the road. Leaving out the question of sailing ships for the moment, the ship which has the other, the crossing ship, on her own right hand (starboard) side has to keep out of the way, and it does so by turning slightly to the right, or to starboard, presenting her left side to the other ship.

Whenever a ship has to give way to another the color of the light of the other ship is on the same side as that to which the helm must be moved. Thus when a red light is seen on the right hand (starboard) side the helm is put to port, the side of the light seen. Similarly when a sailing ship is crossing from port to starboard, showing her green light, that carried on her starboard side, the steamer puts her helm to starboard to clear. This rule could be followed quite as easily with sound signals.

THE ESKIMO KAYAK.

This Greenland Craft Is a Most Difficult One to Handle.

There is no craft so difficult to handle as the Eskimo kayak. The only boat familiar to us which in any way resembles it is the racing shell, but if a crack oarsman of one of our crack colleges were tied into a kayak and told to shift for himself even in smooth water he would have a hard time of it.

The kayak has been evolved through hundreds of years of necessity. Without it the Greenland Eskimos at least would not be able to provide their daily bread, or, more properly speaking, their daily blubber.

It is singular that all the materials used in the construction of the kayak come from the sea—driftwood for the frame, sealskin for the covering, thongs for the harpoon and dart, ivory and bone for bow, stern and keel and for the various implements. The women prepare the skin covering and stretch it over the frame till it is as tight and firm as the head of a drum. On such occasion there is great excitement in the community. A regular "kayak bee" is held; even refreshments are not lacking, for the owner of the kayak treats to coffee all around when the work is satisfactorily done.

The completed boat is a triumph of ingenuity and skill. It is about eighteen feet long, sharply pointed at each end. Its greatest depth is six inches and its width about eighteen. It is entirely covered save for the little round hole into which the owner slips, pushing his feet underneath the skin deck in front.

This hole is fitted to the person for whom the boat is designed, and his thighs completely fill it up. When he is seated in it and his waterproof jacket is tied securely round the edge he is able to defy the waves which wash over him or the rain which beats upon him. The six thong loops arranged on the deck in front and the three or four behind hold his implements—bird darts, lances, knives and, most important of all, his harpoon. A little stand is arranged directly in front of him, upon which is coiled the harpoon line, and behind him on the kayak is the harpoon bladder, which is attached, inflated ready for use, to the line.

The most expert are apt sometimes to be overturned. It may be by the attack of a walrus or even a seal, by a careless movement or an unexpected large wave. If he does not right himself at once, he is inevitably drowned unless a comrade comes to his assistance. The usual method of turning the kayak upright again is by using the paddle as a lever, holding it along the side of the boat, pointing it toward the bow, then sweeping it through the water, but those who are thoroughly proficient are able to do it by means of their throwing stick, their arm or even their hand.

The Trapdoor Spider.

One of the most singular specimens of insect life is the trapdoor spider of Jamaica. His burrow is lined with silk and closed by a trapdoor with a hinge. The door exactly fits the entrance to the burrow and when closed so precisely corresponds with the surrounding earth that it can hardly be distinguished even when its position is known. It is a strange sight to see the earth open, a little lid raise, some hairy legs protrude and gradually the whole form of the spider show itself. These spiders generally hunt for food by night, and in the daytime they are very chary of opening the door of their domicile, and if the trap be raised from the outside, they run to the spot, hitch the claws of their forefeet in the lining of the burrow and so resist with all their might. The strength of the spider is wonderfully great in proportion to its size.

He Could Run Putty.

A laborer in search of work was asked by a builder to whom he applied if he could run putty.

He replied that he could and was told to be at the works at 6 o'clock next morning. He arrived at the time stated, and when asked if he were ready stripped off his overcoat and disclosed himself to the astonished builder clad in running costume and pumps.

"What are you going to do in those things?" inquired the employer.

"Run Putty," answered the man. "But I want you to run it down into this hole," said the builder.

"Oh don't care if it is down a drain," replied the man. "Throt him out, and O'll run him."—London Telegraph.

OUR PATRIOTIC SONGS

We Are Not as Familiar With Them as We Should Be.

FEW OF US KNOW THE WORDS

How Many Americans, For Instance, Can Recite "The Star Spangled Banner" or "My Country, 'Tis of Thee?" "Dixie" and "Maryland, My Maryland."

Proud as they are of their nation, it is a strange fact that Americans are not so familiar with their country's patriotic airs as are the people of the foreign lands.

Even when they are stirred to the point of singing by bands they find it hard to recollect the words. And it is doubtful whether many are aware of the bits of history attached to some of the land's patriotic airs.

Take "The Star Spangled Banner," for instance. How much can you sing of that song? Yet, if any can be called the national anthem, this is the one. Of course it is unfair to ourselves to say that we cannot sing it, but it must be admitted that we don't know it as generally as we should.

Its author, Francis Scott Key, now lies in a cemetery at Frederick, Md., where an American flag is always waving over his grave. Key wrote the song after an experience he had while a prisoner aboard a British war vessel. While he was aboard the boat Fort M'Henry, the sole protection of Baltimore, was bombarded, and the song tells of his satisfaction at finding the flag of his country still waving upon the dawn of the succeeding morning.

It is a hymn which all Americans can join in singing, because it breathes the spirit of the whole land and has not one suggestion of sectionalism in it.

Next as a national song comes "America," sometimes known as "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." Objection is frequently raised against this because the tune was not original. It is the property of the British empire as much as it is of the United States, and when it is heard from afar one cannot tell whether the band wants to feel the inspiration that is in the words of "America" or in "God Save the King."

The words of the song "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," were written by Samuel Francis Smith. The song was first sung at a Sunday school celebration of the Fourth of July at the Park Street church in Boston. It is an interesting fact that one of the little boys who helped to sing "America" for the first time is now the chaplain of the United States senate, the venerable and reverend Edward Everett Hale.

Then we have "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," which has something like an echo of "Britannia, the Pride of the Ocean." The tune of "Yankee Doodle" is a good one, and we all like to whistle or hum it, but the words unfortunately are not very good and, furthermore, it has been said did not mean a great deal at the time they were written. At any rate, it has not the solemn grandeur that "The Star Spangled Banner" holds.

The origin of "Yankee Doodle" is shrouded in the mystery of a score of conflicting tales. It is generally agreed, however, that the tune came from England, and the words were invented by the British soldiers to be sung in derision of the raw American troops who joined them at the camp on the Hudson below Albany in 1755 during the French and Indian war. Twenty years later the rebellious patriots played "Yankee Doodle" at the battle of Lexington, and it became the first national song of the United States.

Philadelphia has considerable interest in "Hail Columbia." It was written by Joseph Hopkinson of this city, although the air was one composed by a German who was conducting an orchestra in New York. Hopkinson wrote the words at the time when war was threatened with France in 1798, and for a long while it was the most popular of our patriotic songs.

As for sectional songs, there are some which have mighty good tunes, a case in point being "Dixie." Although this was the battle hymn of the Confederacy, Lincoln enjoyed it immensely and on the day of his assassination asked a band to play it for him.

"Dixie," however, was written long before the civil war and was not intended for the use of the Confederates. It was written in 1859 by Daniel D. Emmett, who was singing with Bryant's minstrels in New York. Bryant's show was dragging, and as failure seemed imminent he asked Emmett to write a negro "walk around" which would stir up some enthusiasm. "Dixie" was the result.

Its adaptation nearly two years later as the war song of the south was an accident. Mrs. John Wood was appearing at the New Orleans Varieties theater in "Pocahontas." On account of the rising tide of war a zouave drill was introduced into the show. The orchestra leader tried over several airs for the march and finally hit upon "Dixie." The war cloud burst the next week, and from New Orleans "Dixie" spread all over the south. At the north Fanny J. Crosby, the hymn writer, wrote a song for "Dixie" which was strongly Union in sentiment, but the other side had pre-empted the air.

Then it was that the north took up "John Brown's Body," which was first put on by a Boston company, and later Mrs. Julia Ward Howe wrote to this tune "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Another popular southern air is really an old German one. It had been used in America for many years as a vehicle for the old college song "Lau-rigor Horatius," but it is now universally associated with "Maryland, My Maryland."

This song was considered by James Russell Lowell to be the best poem produced by the civil war, and Mr. Lowell could not have been partial to its sentiments. It was written by James Ryder Randall, a Marylander. At the outbreak of hostilities Mr. Randall was teaching in a small college in Louisiana. When he heard the news of the riots in the streets of Baltimore in April, 1861, he was fired by the intelligence and angry because his native state did not forsake the Union. Under these circumstances he wrote the poem. It was first published in the New Orleans Delta and copied in all the southern papers and, of course, became very popular among Maryland secessionists. One of these, Miss Jennie Cary, suggested adapting it to the air of the familiar college song. Miss Cary was in Virginia just after the first battle of Bull Run. She and a party of friends were serenaded at Fairfax Court House by the Washington Light artillery of New Orleans. Miss Cary responded by singing "Maryland, My Maryland."—Philadelphia Press.

Next as a national song comes "America," sometimes known as "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." Objection is frequently raised against this because the tune was not original. The words of the song "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," were written by Samuel Francis Smith. The song was first sung at a Sunday school celebration of the Fourth of July at the Park Street church in Boston. It is an interesting fact that one of the little boys who helped to sing "America" for the first time is now the chaplain of the United States senate, the venerable and reverend Edward Everett Hale.

Then we have "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," which has something like an echo of "Britannia, the Pride of the Ocean." The tune of "Yankee Doodle" is a good one, and we all like to whistle or hum it, but the words unfortunately are not very good and, furthermore, it has been said did not mean a great deal at the time they were written. At any rate, it has not the solemn grandeur that "The Star Spangled Banner" holds.

The origin of "Yankee Doodle" is shrouded in the mystery of a score of conflicting tales. It is generally agreed, however, that the tune came from England, and the words were invented by the British soldiers to be sung in derision of the raw American troops who joined them at the camp on the Hudson below Albany in 1755 during the French and Indian war. Twenty years later the rebellious patriots played "Yankee Doodle" at the battle of Lexington, and it became the first national song of the United States.

Philadelphia has considerable interest in "Hail Columbia." It was written by Joseph Hopkinson of this city, although the air was one composed by a German who was conducting an orchestra in New York. Hopkinson wrote the words at the time when war was threatened with France in 1798, and for a long while it was the most popular of our patriotic songs.

As for sectional songs, there are some which have mighty good tunes, a case in point being "Dixie." Although this was the battle hymn of the Confederacy, Lincoln enjoyed it immensely and on the day of his assassination asked a band to play it for him.

"Dixie," however, was written long before the civil war and was not intended for the use of the Confederates. It was written in 1859 by Daniel D. Emmett, who was singing with Bryant's minstrels in New York. Bryant's show was dragging, and as failure seemed imminent he asked Emmett to write a negro "walk around" which would stir up some enthusiasm. "Dixie" was the result.

Its adaptation nearly two years later as the war song of the south was an accident. Mrs. John Wood was appearing at the New Orleans Varieties theater in "Pocahontas." On account of the rising tide of war a zouave drill was introduced into the show. The orchestra leader tried over several airs for the march and finally hit upon "Dixie." The war cloud burst the next week, and from New Orleans "Dixie" spread all over the south. At the north Fanny J. Crosby, the hymn writer, wrote a song for "Dixie" which was strongly Union in sentiment, but the other side had pre-empted the air.

Then it was that the north took up "John Brown's Body," which was first put on by a Boston company, and later Mrs. Julia Ward Howe wrote to this tune "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Another popular southern air is really an old German one. It had been used in America for many years as a vehicle for the old college song "Lau-

The Case of Miss Hartnett

By MADELINE LEWIS.

Copyrighted, 1908, by P. C. Eastmont.

When Deacon Joab Whitman called at Miss Taylor's select and highly moral and refined school for girls to arrange for the attendance of his ward, Fanny Hartnett, aged seventeen, his attention was called to the fact that the school buildings were surrounded by a fence eleven feet high; also that all windows above the first story were frosted and impervious to masculine gaze. Further, no pupil was allowed outside the fence without a chaperon.

Miss Taylor, who had barely turned forty-seven and carried the idea that it was twenty-seven instead, then went on to speak of the lectures she gave every Wednesday night, of the care taken to keep newspapers and novels from her pupils, of the early hours for bed and of the fact that the only man about the institution, except a couple of servants, was Professor Balch, who had charge of the higher mathematics and was an old bachelor of the most incorruptible principles.

Then she had a number of questions to ask about the young lady, and the deacon had to admit that now and then the latter giggled, she also chewed gum, she had been caught reading novels, she had had a beau, and she loved to go to a circus.

"In fact," said Miss Taylor, "she is what you would call flip?"

"Y-e-s, I guess so. Not too flip, but a little flip."

"I see. Well, while this is not a reformatory, we do now and then take in a pupil in order to cure her of flippancy. The fee is a little larger, but we warrant a perfect cure."

The deacon was willing to pay a little more, and the financial end was soon settled. A week later the new pupil arrived. Perhaps Miss Fanny was flip. At least, she was in good health and spirits, inclined to look on the bright side, and she could sing some and whistle more. In the village where she had been brought up she was considered something of a tomboy, but the phrase was not used to her detriment.

She was given to understand by Miss Taylor what was what and sent to her dormitory. She offered no protest or argument, but from the way she set her jaw and compressed her lips Miss Taylor anticipated rebellion at no distant date.

One of her methods of compelling the young ladies to walk the chalk line was quarterly reports. Every three months each of the girls was called into the private lecture room and her derelictions announced to her and recorded on a blank.

It depended upon that girl to make immediate improvement, or the report would be mailed away to father or guardian. As a matter of fact, no report was ever mailed, as such action might have resulted in financial loss to the school, but the threat had always proved a very effective weapon.

It came to be whispered about as the regular quarter day drew nigh that Miss Taylor had been saving up many complaints against Miss Fanny and that there must be many tears and promises to keep a report from the hands of the deacon.

Much curiosity and considerable anxiety were felt, save by the delinquent herself. She giggled and whistled and bribed the grocer's boy to smuggle in gum, and when the fatal day at length arrived she went smiling to the sacrifice. Miss Taylor kept her on pins and needles for three or four minutes to let the scare strike in and then soberly began:

"Miss Hartnett, I have received several complaints against you and have grouped them under the term counts. I will read them to you:

"Count 1. That on the 3d of September, two days after your arrival here, you tried to tear a board off the fence in order to look out. It is believed, but not absolutely proved, that there was a young man on the other side of the fence at the time."

"Count 2. That on the second week of your arrival you made use of such terms as 'bully gee,' 'come off,' 'too thin,' etc."

"Count 3. That on the third week you were chewing gum and eating caramels."

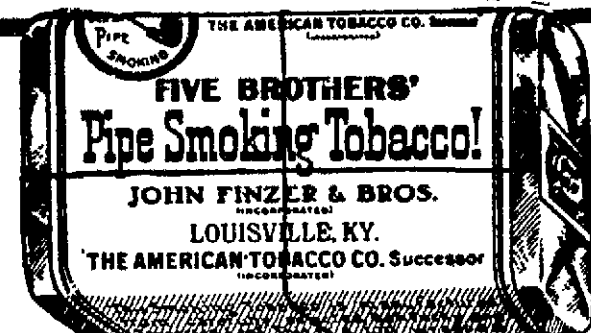

"Count 4. That while going to and returning from the postoffice in charge of Miss Lee you refused to cast your eyes down or look in another direction on meeting various old and young men."

"Count 5. That on a certain night in the fifth week of your arrival and while you were supposed to be asleep in bed you were as a matter of fact sitting up in bed and singing about an old ducky whose name was Uncle Ned."

"Count 6. That on one occasion you mounted to the roof of your dormitory by way of the stairs and scuttled and waved your handkerchief at some young men playing baseball."

"Count 7. That it is believed, though not proved, that an epistle of a sentimental nature was tied to a stone and thrown over the fence and that it was meant for you, and you received it and boasted that Uncle Sam didn't run. The postoffices in the country. There are reasons for believing that on the next night you threw a letter over in response."

"Count 8. That at various times you have argued that there was nothing wicked about the circus or the theater and that you have said that you pitied old maids; also that you have giggled when my name and condition in life have been discussed. Further, that you have said that you would be married before you were twenty-one. Further, once more, that you have referred to Professor Balch as 'topshoodered and squint eyed.'

"There are the respective counts, Miss Hartnett, just as they have been prepared to go to your guardian, and now you may tell me what you have to say in offset—that is, I don't suppose you have anything to say."

"Oh, yes, I have!" replied Miss Fanny as she drew a paper from her pocket. "Yes, I have something to say, and I have also grouped it under the term counts. I will read them, if you please:

"Count 1. That upon my arrival at the school I was told of about 500 things I mustn't do."

"Count 2. That I was sent to a dormitory about as bare and poverty stricken as our old garret at home."

"Count 3. That I have had about half enough to eat-up to date and want to get out and steal raw turnips."

"Count 4. That one evening I got out into the yard, and while snooping around I passed Miss Taylor's room and looked into the window and saw Professor Balch holding her hand in one of his and putting it with the other."

"Count 5. That the night in October when it blew such a gale a lot of papers were blown from the professor's window. One of these he didn't recover from the yard next morning was a half sheet on which he had written two verses of poetry to Angelina's eyes. There is only one Angelina connected with this secluded school, and she is not a teacher."

"Count 6. That we don't have blankets enough on the beds to keep us warm."

"Count 7. That the only three girls who get sweet cake are the three who keep asking the principal when her twenty-seventh birthday will arrive."

"Count 8. That this secluded and highly moral and refined prison for girls."

"Just one moment, Miss Hartnett," interrupted Miss Taylor in her sweetest tones. "I think we are at cross purposes."

"Yes, ma'am."

"When I come to look again at the record I read you it appears to apply to Miss Harker instead of Hartnett. Similarity of names, you see."

"Yes, ma'am."

"And when you come to look again at your record—"

"It seems to be a couple of verses of poetry that I scribbled off last night. I hope it is not against the rules to write poetry, ma'am?"

"Well, no, not if you submit it to the teacher. You may leave this, if you will, and I will look it over and see if your meter is correct. You may go, my dear. Please tell Miss Vaughn to step in here. I must tell her that she doesn't seem to have the interest in her studies to be expected of her."

John Albert Mickel

John Albert Mickel, eldest son of William B. Mickel, died at the home of his father at New Paris Saturday morning, June 6, aged 16 years and 27 days. His sickness was of short duration. He was one of the many young people who attended "Quaker Quarter" the Sunday preceding his death. His funeral, which occurred Sunday afternoon following, was largely attended. Services were held in the Holsinger German Baptist church, conducted by Rev. Levi Rodgers who delivered an able discourse from Matt. 11:28, "The Master has come and called for thee." Interment was made in the old German Baptist cemetery beside the body of his mother who preceded him in death May 25, 1901. The pall bearers of this young man were six of his associates—William Studebaker, Lloyd Blackburn, Grant Snyder, Bruce Blackburn, Grant Davis and Edward Snyder. Cad.

Services in Historic Church

Rev. William P. Schell of Seneca Falls, N. Y., will hold services in the "Old Log Church" near Schellsburg at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, June 21. Rev. Schell is a grandson, in the fourth degree, of John Schell, the founder of Schellsburg and donor of the land on which the church and cemetery are located.

It is hoped that there will be a general attendance of the citizens of Schellsburg and surrounding country, especially the descendants of the early settlers who worshipped God in this humble log building 100 years ago.

In addition to their individual affidavits hereunto attached that they do jointly and unanimously agree that their examination proves beyond a doubt that the death of Charles E. Schaeffer, late of Fostoria, O., was not caused by a gun shot wound, but by the wounds as found by them. He was struck from behind on the back of the head near the right ear, and by some instrument on the forehead which caused a large bruised and inflamed mark on the bone of the forehead and within this bruised spot they found a puncture oblong in shape penetrating the frontal bone, evidently made by some other instrument. That from the thorough examination which they made and witnessed and from the condition of the brain, no bullet penetrated the skull or passed through the brain. That his death came from wounds of instruments in the hands of some person or persons to them unknown.

ATTENTION, FRUIT GROWERS!

If Meeting June 27 is Not Attended Association Will Disband.

The Bedford County Fruit Growers' Association will hold their regular monthly meeting in the court house on Saturday, June 27, at 2 p. m. There being no meeting in May, we want to elect officers for the coming year. On account of the poor attendance it will be much better to hold fewer meetings with the hope of better attendance. It has been suggested that we hold quarterly meetings instead of monthly as in the past with a poor or no attendance. There should be enough interest in horticulture in Bedford county to get enough fruit growers together to hold four meetings a year; if not, we will disband. It seems almost a waste of time at this writing but we have decided to try once more.

There is no county in Pennsylvania that has more fruit trees and the natural conditions for the production of fine apples, than has Bedford county. I doubt very much if there is a man in Bedford county who can not find time to attend four meetings a year along the lines of fruit growing. We are going ahead with the hope that the members of the association will attend, and those who are not members but should be. The members are one and all expected to attend every meeting and the public is invited. If we are to meet quarterly arrangements should be made for the annual meeting in December. Those who had the pleasure of attending our meeting last December know that it was a success and profitable in many ways to those raising fruit of any kind. Let the fruit interest of this county manifest itself by the attendance at our next meeting, on the 27th of June. If you attend you will save this association from destruction, but if you stay away you will help destroy it.

R. F. Lee, Secretary.

Attention!

Complying with the request of hundreds of people from all parts of the county who wrote and asked that the Big Sale of the Metropolitan Clothing and Shoe House be continued, the proprietor of the store has granted the request and the sale is continued for fifteen more days from June 20. Some people said, "We have been very busy working, as you know the season has been late, and we could not come to the big sale. We need goods, we need clothes and shoes very badly and would like to get your bargains, so please continue your Big Sale and you will please a whole lot of people. Let us know if you will do so." Other people have written saying, "I would like to buy clothes but I won't have the money until next week, won't you please continue your sale a while longer?" These requests have been complied with and the sale goes on for 15 more days from June 20. See ad on page five.

Dr. J. N. Helman, the Pittsburgh eye-specialist, will be at the Bedford House on Wednesday and Thursday, June 24 and 25.

Wolfsburg Circuit

Services June 21: Rainsburg—Class meeting 10 a. m.; preaching 10:30 a. m. Trans Run—Sunday school 1:30 p. m.; preaching 2:30 p. m. Wolfsburg—Sunday school 10 a. m.; Children's Day services 7:30 p. m. Second quarterly conference will meet on Monday, June 22, at Bedford at 2 p. m. E. C. Knoch, Pastor.

School teachers who would like to earn some money during their summer vacation, will find it profitable to write to the Circulation Department of The Philadelphia Press, Seventh and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia. The Press has a proposition for school teachers during the summer, whereby they earn additional money by congenial work.

BARNETT'S STORE

A Penny-Weight of Performance is Worth a Ton of Weak-Kneed Promises.

Every day of the year this big store gladly fulfils its promises. Has a bigger and better stock than can be found in any other place in the county. Can supply your or your home wants quickly and satisfactorily. Makes your money hold out longer. Gives more and better goods for a given sum. Performs all its promises without trying to wriggle out on small technicalities. What you see temptingly advertised is not only here, but here in abundance. The stock of everything sold is large—very large.

The big store accommodates the wants of the rich and the poor, and both come in for profit-sharing, because we always have and always will undersell other places where similar goods are sold. It's wasting time to dispute these claims; we have hundreds of pleased customers who gladly testify to the truth of our assertions. We have long since learned the wisdom and truth of the old saying: "An ounce of performance is worth a pound of broken promises." And so have you.

Why We Advertise Henderson Corsets

It does not pay us to advertise a poor thing

HENDERSON
CORSET

To urge, advise and recommend that you buy some inferior article hurts us, because you will remember the injury we have done you—because you have a degree of confidence in us and we cannot afford to push an unsatisfactory item. This applies to corsets with perhaps greater force than with any other article of wear. And we advertise Henderson Corsets because, while the profit is small, the satisfaction to the wearer is great, and second sales come without effort on our part. Women know a good thing when they have tried it. This week we have a full stock of the following:

393 @ $ .50	444 @ $ .50
666 @ 1.00	262 @ 1.00
333 @ 1.25	888 @ 1.25

Summer Curtain Materials

Light-weight fabrics, which make the house look cool in hot weather.

Just a hint of sash curtain materials: Madras, 36 inches wide, 12½ to 15c a yard. Fish net, 40 inches wide, 12½c a yard. Point d'Esprit, 40 inches, 35c a yard. Hem-stitched ruffled Swiss in white and ecru at 15, 25 and 35c a yard. Lace curtain goods by the yard, 10c to 35c. Denims for curtains, 18c, and striped linens for the making of furniture slip covers, 72 inches wide, 50c a yard. Light tapestry for curtains 50, 65 and 75c a yard.

Paint

Don't put off painting—your property rots very soon when the paint is gone. We are selling the very highest grade made and at very special prices. Also Brushes, Turpentine and Linseed Oil.

WRINGERS, TUBS, ICE CREAM FREEZERS, CEDAR PAILS, CHURNS, BUTTER BOWLS, COFFEE MILLS, SLAW CUTTERS, ETC.

We carry at all times a full stock of the above items in all the best makes and guarantee you a saving on each article. We sell the best Ice Cream Freezer we ever saw or ever heard of, and one gallon size will cost $2.50.

We have some new style Wash Wringers that we want you to see—some that have gum rollers and don't grind the buttons to pieces or tear your arms off—$1.25 and $1.75 to $3.

Dinner Sets

Of English porcelain decorated china in two colors, containing 100 pieces, and worth much more than we ask for them. They are not seconds, but the very best in this line, and our price of $9.98 puts them at the top as early season's bargains in Chinaware.

Shirt Waists For Hot Weather

If you want to keep as cool as a cucumber, wear a white lawn waist. Women's waists of white lawn, front of hemstitched tucks, large white pearl buttons, $1.25.

Black Taffeta—36 inches wide, excellent for linings, splendid for coats and waists, guaranteed to wear, 98c a yard. Better grade at $1.25.

Black Japanese Silk—27 inches wide, lustrous black at 49c. Fine Black Peau de Soie—pure silk with soft finish 85c.

Women's Neck Things and Belts

25 and 50c—a new supply—just in time. Every woman loves something dainty to wear around her neck, and this summer she need not be extravagant. The all-white collars look the coolest, perhaps. Some are made of linen and trimmed with open lace; others are made of little bands herringboned together, and still others almost all made of lace. But there are colors, too, for the women who prefer them.

We show this week some of the prettiest Belts for 25 and 50c ever brought to Bedford.

Parasols and Sun Umbrellas

A few handsome and medium grade parasols yet in stock and we are determined to sell them during the next two weeks. Our prices will be so very low on these goods, that unless you are well supplied, you can't resist buying—they must go at some figure. Blue, Green, Black and Garnet Sun Umbrellas are very materially reduced for this sale. Very pretty silk umbrellas with fancy handles—$1.50, were $2. Other handsome umbrellas at $4, $4.50 and $5.

Lap Robes

This time of the year finds us with too many Summer Robes on hand. If you need one you can supply yourself at a price far below what you were asked a month ago.

Men's Socks

We are agents for the celebrated Interwoven Toe and Heel Socks. We say, without a doubt, that they are the best 25c socks on the market. Come in all the fashionable shades and light and medium weight.
